

She's all washed up

Marissa, a rare snow leopard cub, sports a curious look as she gets weekly bath from Bronx Zoo's mammal supervisor, Fred Sterling, yesterday. The cub, underweight at birth, has been temporarily separated from her family so that she could be fed an enriched diet to add pounds.